

BOROUGH PROMISES TO CONTROL DOGS

Will Enforce Law Requiring
Leashing or Muzzling of Animals.

FINES ARE PROVIDED

A vigorous campaign against unleashed and unmuzzled dogs is to be waged by the borough authorities, through the police, it was announced yesterday by Burgess Henry A. Frye.

The drive to control the canines is backed up by an ordinance 23 years old. In August, 1903, Council, of which J. C. Simpson was then president, provided that from June 1 to October 1, each year, "No dog shall be allowed to run at large in the borough of Narberth without being sufficiently muzzled to prevent it from biting persons or animals."

A penalty of $5 is provided for violation of the act, in addition to a provision that the offending animal may be nabbed by a dog catcher, to be recovered only by the payment of additional costs.

So many complaints have been received by the authorities that efforts are to be made to enforce the law strictly. For many years residents have complained of a multitude of apparently uncontrolled dogs running at large, tearing up lawns and flower beds, fighting, snapping at passers-by, overturning garbage pails—in fact, doing every annoying and dangerous thing of which a dog is capable.

Campaigns from time to time by State employees have served to curb the nuisance, but this year the burgess has promised strict police measures.

All dogs must either be unleashed, or muzzled. In addition, that a license must have been secured. Council and the police are checking up on unlicensed and unleashed dogs, and summary action is promised.

Signs, warning residents of the campaign, are being posted throughout the borough, and every effort will be made to abate the nuisance this summer.

DETOUR ESTABLISHED

In Cynwyd as Work of Wrecking Old
Station Bridge Begins.

A detour on Montgomery Pike in Cynwyd was established Monday by the police when the work of wrecking the Cynwyd station bridge began. Motorists bound for Philadelphia are now shunted down Bala avenue to City Line and over the City Line railroad bridge to Conshohocken road, which cuts into Fairmount Park toward the city.

The next bridge over the Schuylkill Division tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad, below Cynwyd station bridge is Union avenue, but comparatively few automobiles use this, as the approach is up a steep grade and the paving of the street there is poor. A no parking area of 200 feet has been established below Montgomery Pike on Bala avenue in order to relieve traffic congestion at that point.

A new $73,000 concrete bridge will replace the present Cynwyd span.

WIN PRIZES

At the drawing for the prizes offered by merchants in the recent campaign by the baseball club to raise money, 10 lucky persons walked off with as many gifts.

The drawings were held Monday at Davis' store. The winners were:

L. H. Smith, Avon Apts., one-half ton of ice.

W. W. Duer, Avon Apts., large Star ham.

T. C. Martin, 229 Dudley avenue, box of cigars.

C. L. McKee, 224 Wayne avenue, basket of fruit.

W. H. Fretz, 126 Chestnut avenue, Eversharp pencil.

C. M. McCracken, 106 Merion avenue, Saville spigots.

Chester G. Jones, Woodbine avenue, baseball glove.

Mary Creamer, Merion avenue, bag of bone meal.

"Slim" Stalker, Mill road, box of candy.

Robert J. McClain, 16 Woodside avenue, bathroom accessory.

A HINT

It will rain during the summer, and when it rains folks will get wet.

But sometimes the extent of the wetting depends on the courtesy of the property owners of the Borough.

In many parts of the town big privet hedges encroach on the sidewalks, making passage difficult. Overhanging trees have limbs which sweep too low; high weeds are allowed to flourish in vacant lots and corners of properties.

For the sake of politeness and appearance, keep the sidewalks clear.

WILL ARGUE AGAIN ON YELLOW PERMIT

Township and Narberth Will Back Taxi Men in Second
Hearing Today

18 FROM HERE PROTEST

Another hearing on the application of the Yellow Taxicab Company of the P. R. T. for a certificate to operate in Philadelphia and vicinity was held in Philadelphia City Hall yesterday. At this the 30 independent cab operators who opposed the extension of the city company's franchise to the suburbs were reinforced by legal representatives of Lower Merion township and the borough of Narberth, who have joined them in their protest.

The cab company at the previous hearing declared it had many calls to go out into the suburbs, and that its desire for a franchise permitting operation outside of Philadelphia was merely to allow it to get "return passengers" and eliminate one-way hauls.

Both the Lower Merion commission and the Narberth Council, at meetings last week, declared that satisfactory service was now being rendered by local owners, and that outside competition was unwarranted. The borough Council, in a lengthy resolution, went further and declared that it would not grant additional permits for taxi stands in the Narberth business centre because it would add to traffic congestion. It also expressed an opinion that "drivers of a large outside corporation, regardless of their personal integrity," would require more policing than resident owners who were personally known.

At the hearing yesterday E. S. Higgins, of Cynwyd, vice-president of the Yellow Cab Company, produced records which, attempted to show a large demand for Yellow service in this section.

Frank Harrigan, of Cynwyd, is attorney for the 30 suburban independent operators who are protesting the Yellow Cab extension. Of this number 18 are from Lower Merion and Narberth. Included among the protesting owners are the Suburban Cab Company, of Ardmore; the Narberth Taxi Company, Patrick Donohue, also of Narberth; Kromer taxis, at Cynwyd station, and the Sowden and Little taxis, at Fifty-fourth street and City Line; Bala.

APPOINTED TO ANNAPOLIS

Robert Melville Patten, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Patten, of Woodside avenue, has received an appointment to Annapolis from Senator George Wharton Pepper.

This was announced late last week after Patten had successfully passed the entrance examinations, and had secured the appointment. His father, Postmaster Fred C. Patten, made a special trip to Washington and interviewed Senator Pepper, to insure his son's appointment.

Bob, who is 19, attended the Narberth schools, graduating from Lower Merion, taking additional courses at the Severn School, Maryland. At both institutions he played quarter-back on the football teams.

When a member of the local Boy Scout troop, he attained the rank of "Eagle Scout" for proficiency in merit badge work.

Patten's appointment is the second announced from the borough of Narberth during the past month. An appointment by the Navy Department was won by Joseph Snyder, son of Dr. and Mrs. O. J. Snyder, recently.

VISITORS ADMIRE NEW SCOUT HOME

Girl Scout Committee Holds
June Meeting in Narberth.

LOCAL TROOP LARGEST

The Narberth Troop of Girl Scouts, the largest in the district, acted as hostesses Friday to the Main Line Committee of the Philadelphia Girl Scout Council.

The meeting was well attended, and the local troop was the recipient of many congratulations on the new home provided in the Community Building.

The meeting, at which representatives of many nearby troops were present, was followed by a luncheon served by the Narberth organization, under the direction of Mrs. John C. Nash, captain, and her sister, Mrs. Arthur L. Cooke, lieutenant.

On account of the vast increase of interest in scouting, it was announced that informal meetings of the committee would be held throughout the summer and that the winter season would begin with the meeting September 8 at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Charles C. Harrison, Jr., in Villanova. This meeting will be in preparation for the "Scout-Parent Picnic" to be given September 25 at Mrs. Harrison's home.

At the rummage sale held recently in Ardmore, $148.62 was netted for the Girl Scouts according to a report given by Miss Mary B. North, vice chairman of the Sale Committee. The Sale Committee was composed of Mrs. C. Duane Williams, of Haverford, as chairman; Miss North and Mrs. William B. Dyer, of Ardmore. The following troops of the Main Line sent rummage and will get a percentage of the proceeds: Cynwyd, Overbrook, Narberth, Ardmore, Gladwyne, Haverford, Wayne and Norristown.

Reports were given by the chairmen of five recently formed Troop Committees, the chairman being automatically members of the Main Line Committee. There were reports of luncheons given for the troop camp funds and plans for scouts to lead in the Children's Day service of one of the churches, as well as on account of the presence of the Swedish delegate to the World Conference at one troop meeting, where she told of scouting as it is done in Sweden.

SQUIRE FRED TALKED

Squire Fred Walzer, of Narberth, was the speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club Tuesday. He told of the painting business, in which he is engaged.

Another talker was Rev. Herbert Walker Bieber, who told of his recent experiences in the wilds of North Carolina.

Joseph J. Skelton, Jr., presided at the meeting, which was at the Cynwyd Club, as usual.

NEW RADIO

Haverford avenue is being entertained by a new radio loud-speaker set, which is being demonstrated in front of the Narberth Electric Shop. The Garod Radio Corporation, of Newark, N. J., is the latest invader of the local radio field. Walter G. Case, genial demonstrator of the new set, claims that it uses no batteries, but plugs in on an ordinary house electric current.

The Fireside

Mrs. George W. Cook and Mrs. Warren Anderson and their children are spending a month at Culpepper, Va.

Miss Evelyn Jefferis, of Forrest avenue, is spending two weeks at "Byronden Farms," Chester county.

Attorney Desmond J. McTighe, of Essex avenue, sailed last Saturday for Havana, Cuba, aboard the "S. S. Siboney." He plans to be away for three or four weeks; during that time he will renew acquaintance with boyhood friends whom he has not seen since he left Havana some years ago.

COUNTY STILL SHY ON C. M. T. C. QUOTA

Will Take Applications Up to Last Minute, It Is Announced

NEED 19 MORE FOR 140

A total of 121 boys from Montgomery county has made application for admission to the Citizens' Military Training Camps, which will be held from July 8 to August at various parts of the country, it was reported this week, at recruiting headquarters in Norristown. There is still room for 19 more, as the quota for the county is 140. Applications will be received up to the last minute.

Hon. J. Ambler Williams, president judge of the Montgomery county Courts, is chairman of the local citizens' recruiting committee. Colonel F. G. Stritzinger, with offices in Norristown, is vice-chairman.

Last year nearly two score boys responded from Lower Merion and Narberth which had the second highest number enrolled in the C. M. T. C. A smaller number has answered the call this year.

Three boys from Narberth and two from the township received letters this week from the Government ordering them to the coast artillery unit at Fortress Monroe, at Norfolk, Va. They are Robert L. Dothard, 417 Haverford road, Narberth; Charles M. Henry, 329 Meeting House lane, Narberth; Van Steell Jackson, 127 Upland terrace, Bala; Raymond H. Rudruff, Montgomery and Woodbine avenues, Narberth, and Wendell B. Stewart, 325 Bryn Mawr avenue, Cynwyd.

SEEKS RARE PLANTS

Mr. Walter Steckbeck, Wayne avenue, accompanied by his wife and son, Waldo, are on a three weeks' trip to Virginia, North and South Carolina. It is hoped that many plants of interest will be found and brought back for the University of Pennsylvania collection. The main object of the trip is the further study of the "Venus Fly Trap," a plant which has frequently been designated the "most remarkable plant in the world."

The plant called "Dionaea Muscipula" by the scientists is found native in a small area near the coast around the City of Wilmington, N. C. The southern limit of distribution extends into South Carolina. Here John Bartram, America's first and most illustrious botanist, found the plant in 1744 while on a collecting trip in the capacity as the King's Botanist.

Dionaea is unique in its insect-catching habit and also for its restricted distribution. Attempts have been made to transfer the plant to other parts of the world, but with no success. Even under favorable green house conditions poor results are obtained. With the rapid growth of Wilmington and other smaller towns in the area of "Venus Fly Trap" habitat the plant will very likely become extinct in time.

GOING UP

Now that the school term has finished, the work on the addition to the high school building on Montgomery avenue is progressing rapidly. The steel structure is practically all in place and the stone work has already reached the second floor.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Joyce, formerly of Wynnewood avenue, have moved into their new home at 11 Narbrook Park, Narberth.

Mrs. William G. Bartlett and children, of Elmwood avenue, are at their cottage at Ocean City, N. J.

Mr. Ross Howenstein, of Chestnut avenue, is recovering from a recent operation.

Miss Jeannette Byall, of Bryn Mawr avenue, will leave on July 1 for Pine Log Camp, Maine, for the summer.

ELECTED PRESIDENT

A Narberth resident will again lead the Poor Richard Club of Philadelphia. Morton Gibbons Neff, of Wynnewood avenue, has been elected president of the large advertisers' and publicists' club, and will assume office next month.

Mr. Neff is the second Narberth man to hold this important post. Robert H. Durbin, of Narberth is an ex-president of the club.

VARE SPENT MORE THAN PEPPER HERE

His Committee Expended
$17,168; Pepper, $15,866;
Pinchot, $1874.

LUDLOW'S COST $3414

Vare spent more money in Montgomery county in his vain attempt to beat the Johnson organization at the recent primaries than did the Pepper-Fisher forces, reports filed by campaign committees at Norristown, reveal.

Vare forces collected a total of $19,500 in this county, but $5000 of this came from Thomas F. Watson, chairman of the Philadelphia Vare-Beidleman-James Woodward Committee. A surplus remains, according to committee returns, as expenses totaling $17,168.76 were incurred.

The Pepper-Fisher Committee spent $15,886, while receipts from contributions totaled $6555. Deficits amounting to $7000 were made up by bank loans.

The Pinchot-for-Senator Committee spent $1874.04, of which sum $1580 was contributed by William S. Buckland, county Pinchot leader.

Ludlow Spent $2827.

The campaign of Benjamin H. Ludlow, of Ardmore, defeated candidate for State Senator, cost $3414.52, other reports filed at Norristown show. Of this total, $287.52 was spent by Mr. Ludlow himself. The remaining $587 was expended by a campaign committee of which John S. Wilson was treasurer.

The Republican Organization Committee, formed by Deputy Auditor General Charles Johnson, which supported the Pepper-Fisher-Boyd ticket, filed a report of its expenses through Robert C. Miller, treasurer. It is shown the receipts of contributions totaled $6555. The expenditures were $13,934.32, while unpaid bills total $1952.50 additional. Deficits to the amount of $7000 were made up by bank loans.

The amount spent in getting out of the vote totaled $7286.62, and the balance was spent for stationery, printing, postage, etc.

Pepper Fund Contributors.

A list of the contributors include $2000, James S. Boyd; $1000, George Weaver, Clarence L. Eder; $500, John N. Storb, I. Powell Thomas; $400, Fred C. Peters; $250, George Fratt, Mary Warburton; $100, Nelson P. Fegley, Benjamin Hughes; $75, George Thumm, B. F. Stritzinger; $50, James H. Eagan, John Baltz; $35, Samuel Miller; $25, H. C. Podall, J. L. Adams; $20, H. M. Tracey, Wilmer Johnson; $15, John Wilson; $5, David Seasholtz.

A total of $19,500 was received by the Vare forces in Montgomery county, according to returns made

UNION PRAYER MEETINGS

The first of the series of Union Prayer Meetings for this summer will be held next Wednesday evening in the Baptist Church, with Rev. W. S. Dawson as leader. These meetings will be held each Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the following rotation of churches: Baptist, Presbyterian, Methodist and Lutheran, with leaders furnished by each of the four churches in turn. In former years these Union meetings have been most helpful. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend.

The first of the Sunday evening Union twilight meetings will be held on the lawn in the rear of the Methodist Church on July 4 at 7.30 o'clock. It will be a meeting in the interest of Christian patriotism and will be addressed by Hon. James L. Rankin, of Chester, Pa.

NARBERTH AVENUE WORK PROGRESSING

Second Section of Repaving
Job Now Nearing Completion.

TACKLE WINDSOR NEXT

The work of re-surfacing parts of Narberth avenue is proceeding at a rapid pace. During the past week the monthly ash collections and rainy weather has held up the job, but with the workmen released from the collections it is hoped that the paving may be finished in good time.

The first stretch, from Haverford to Windsor avenue, was finished two weeks ago, and opened to traffic. The entire old surface, which was in very bad shape, was removed and a new water-bound macadam top put on.

The new street policy, adopted with the loan paving last year, was followed. Instead of constructing a separate gutter, that part of the street was made continuous with the traffic section, with the result that several extra feet have been added to the useful width of the street.

This same plan is being used in the part now under construction—from Woodbine avenue to Montgomery. The first half of this, from Price to Woodbine, is practically finished, and the rest will be tackled in a short time.

No work will be done on the intermediate stretch, from Windsor to Woodbine, partly because of lack of funds, and partly because that part is not in as bad shape.

The work is being done by the borough, under direction of Street Commissioner George B. Suplee, because of the economy effected. It is hoped that several thousand dollars will be cut from the contractor's estimate. A part of Windsor avenue will also be repaved this year.

In order to keep the taxes down, the resurfacing job was divided between the budgets of two years, and provisions will be made for finishing the work in 1927.

REINSTATEMENT OF POLICIES

Five-Year Level—Premium Offered to World War Veterans.

Answering a flood of inquiries from local World War veterans produced by conflicting rumors of new insurance legislation, H. J. Crosson, Philadelphia Regional Manager of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau, announced today that the bill signed this week by President Coolidge has extended for one year the final date upon which war risk insurance policies could be reinstated and converted to permanent form. The final date therefore becomes July 2, 1927. The necessity of this extension in order to avoid an injustice to all concerned is demonstrated by the results of Mr. Crosson's educational campaign about Government insurance during the past six months. During this period $9,250,000 in Government policies were placed among ex-service men in the Philadelphia metropolitan area as against only $2,250,000 in the six months immediately preceding. In addition over 4000 men thus aroused received full information as a result of personal application.

Mr. Crosson said he was advised by the Assistant Director in Charge of Insurance at the Veterans' Bureau at Washington that the new law also authorizes a five-year level-premium term policy, exchangeable within the five-year period for other forms of level-premium life or endowment policies.

AID IN CONVENTION

Many Narberth men, members of the Poor Richard Club of Philadelphia, have been taking a prominent part in the activities of that club as hosts to the convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World.

Morton Gibbons Neff, of Wynnewood avenue, is chairman of the Transportation Committee, of which Walter A. Fox, of Narbrook Park, is a member. James B. Mackenzie, also of the Park, is chairman of the Golf Tournament Committee.

Many Narberth members have offered the use of their cars in transporting the many visitors about. One hundred and ninety cars are required to carry the lady visitors to the many functions being given this week in their honor.

USE OF INSECTICIDES AND SPRAYS EXPLAINED

Local Chemist Discusses Useful Anti-bug Mixtures.

The following article on the preparation and use of sprays and insecticides appeared in the current issue of The Bulletin of Pharmacy. It is of general interest and is reprinted for the information of our readers. The author is F. W. E. Stedem, of Koch's Drug Store.

Let us begin with a list of the drugs and chemicals useful in pest control that are, or can be, carried by the average retail druggist in his ordinary stock.

Heading the list, at least in the alphabetical, sense are the arsenical preparations: arsenic trioxide, calcium arsenate, copper arsenate (Paris green), and lead arsenate. Next come borax and sodium perborate, carbon disulphide, copper sulphate, copper carbonate, formaldehyde, gasoline, kerosene, lime, lime sulphide, para-dichlorobenzene, powdered white hellebore, powdered tobacco (made from the leaves and stems or sweepings from the cigar roller's bench), pyrethrum roseum (ordinary insect powder), quassia, sodium fluoride, sulphur, rosin.

All these items, and a host of others that will suggest themselves as a result of investigation and experiment, are used in the preparation of products that will aid in the extermination of both household pests and those that infest the plants and shrubs of the outside garden.

For getting rid of that most troublesome of all invaders, the Cimex lectularius, as it is termed scientifically, or the bedbug, as it is commonly known, the least dangerous agent to use is powdered pyrethrum. This substance is to be found on the market in numerous copyrighted packages. Pyrethrum is also effective against ants, roaches and other crawling pests that may invade the home. The powder is used by spraying or blowing into cracks and crevices.

As a liquid application, solution of bichloride of mercury has been popular, but on account of the danger resulting from having such deadly material about is not to be recommended. Equally good results can be had with common table salt, or basoline or kerosene. Mixtures of borax and sugar, or sodium perborate, or sodium fluoride are likewise useful in combating the invaders.

Thoroughness Is Essential.
To do a thorough job of ridding the premises of bedbugs, systematic procedure is required. The first thing to do is to make sure that the wall paper is not loose or broken or cracked and that all cracks in the walls are properly filled with plaster of Paris, for if such conditions prevail no amount of bed-renovating will be of any use. The next step is to put out all fires and then treat the whole interior of the house to a good bath of kerosene or gasoline. Quantities of the fluid should be sloshed into all the cracks in the walls, base boards and flooring.

Now we are ready for the beds, and the most effective and least dangerous way to treat them, if they are wooden ones, is with a hot solution of common table salt of such concentration as to leave a distinct coating of salt in the various cracks and crevices where the bug could house and breed. If the beds are of metal, slosh them well with gasoline or kerosene, and when dry apply powdered pyrethrum liberally. This treatment will keep the beds from further invasion.

In other words, get the bugs out and keep them out.
Ant is another source of annoyance in the home, and an old country precaution for protecting the refrigerator and sideboard from invasion is to place under each leg of these a shallow vessel or tin partly filled with water. The ant does not like to swim, so when he crawls up the side of the vessel and sees an ocean in his way he simply backs down and tries other fields for his foraging. In some localities it is the custom to put a sweetened solution of arsenic or carbalt in the tin vessel, to which custom I strongly object, for the reason that this same sweetened poisonous solution is equally dangerous to children and household pets.

For Crawling Pests.
When the house is generally invaded by ants, the various cracks under the base boards and the open places about the kitchen sink should be kept well dusted with a mixture of powdered sugar and borax, sugar and sodium perborate, sodium fluoride, or powdered pyrethrum. If the conditions permit, it is advisable to put a fairly heavy line of asphaltum varnish or a heavy Tanglefoot just inside of the open places. The ant will find himself well stuck up and his further usefulness as an ant will be ended. This same line of treatment is effective for roaches and thousand-leggers.

Spiders in the house must be discouraged by means of broom and dust cloth, unless the house can be closed and fumigated.

Now for a consideration of the out-of-doors problem, the spraying against leaf-chewing and sap-sucking pests and those minute scale pest that are the bane of perennials, both of the ornamental and usefully profitable varieties.

The United States Department of Agriculture, and also the different State colleges and universities, issue bulletins on the subject of plant and tree pests, and always recommend a proper spray for each of the multitudinous conditions. Their recommendations are invariably reliable and good, but the remedies suggested are frequently not made use of for the reason that the average tree or flower owner is appalled by the complexity of the formulas involved. He is driven for convenience sake to the florist, where the material needed is offered for sale in a convenient can to be diluted as wanted. The florist or seedman gets the business and banks the profits simply because the druggist is overlooking a bet.

Methods of Spraying.

Sprays may be divided into two general classes: those intended for use on growing plants and vegetables and those used during the dormant season from late fall to early spring.

Dormant sprays are suitable for application to perennials of all kinds, useful or beautiful or both, and this includes fruit trees of all varieties and other plants hardly enough to renew their life season after season and year after year without death to the stem part of the plant.

Dormant spraying is just as necessary for plant life as dental cleaning of the teeth is necessary for the human being.

Perhaps the best of all dormant sprays is the old reliable lime and salt and sulphur solution, a formula for which will be given later. For scale diseases such as oyster shell or San Jose scale, the spray should be used after the perennial has been well scraped, or on larger trees scrubbed with a wire or steel brush.

And now for a brief discussion of those pest which afflict plant life in the spring and summer when the plant is active.

Aphis is an intolerable and disgusting pest at best. It is usually seen as a minute green-colored bug, very soft and tender, and present in unbelievable numbers. They not only disfigure the plant but actually destroy young tender shoots, and by their activities retard growth and sometimes kill.

These pests should be gone after in the early evening just before sundown or early in the morning before the sun is high. They may be combated by washing or spraying, with soap in solution, or with an alkaline mixture of quassia and soap, or a mixture of infusions of pyrethrum and soap. Commence early in the season and spray industriously until they disappear (about June 15), and then again on their reappearance in September.

Ants are a garden nuisance as well as a household pest. Their activities outside the house can be controlled by pouring a solution of carbon disulphide or gasoline down the tunnels and shafts of the colony, the entrance to which can easily be discovered by gently breaking aside the heaps of soil that cover them.

Leaf-eating insects are best discouraged by sprays of arsenic. There are many combinations of arsenic available, and all of them are useful. Arsenic alone is not satisfactory because it is liable to burn the foliage if it is intended to protect.

In connection with arsenic we must remember the difference between leaf-eating pests and sap-sucking pests. The leaf-eater is to be poisoned by what he eats, while the sap-sucker must be gotten at by choking or smothering him to death.

There are many fungus and rust diseases that torment plant life, and on these we lay down the general rule that to have healthy, flourishing plants we should not wait for disease to appear, but should forestall it by preventive measures. Our knowledge of plant life has not progressed to the point of vaccination against disease, and we must dust and wash and spray as often as necessary, and in a manner that will kill if the pests are present or prevent them if their presence is imminent.

All fruit trees and hardy shrubs should be treated with a dormant spray twice during the dormant season. One application can be made within three weeks after the leaves drop in the fall and the second spraying may be in February or March before the buds are out in full.

For growing plants and vegetables the indicated remedies should be used for as long a time as needed, which means all season, for we not only want to kill the invaders but want to prevent them from reproducing their kind for the next season.

All powders used to kill or discourage bugs and insects must be used in the dry state, and are to be applied only when the sun is up and leaves dry. They are never to be used immediately before or immediately after a rain. Included in the list of dry sprays are Paris green, mixtures of Paris green and lime and flour, tobacco dust, quassia-flour, and powdered pyrethrum.

To Kill Aphis or Other Sap-Sucking Insects.
Soap 1 pound.
Infusion of quassia ½ to 1 gallon
Infusion of pyrethrum (1 to 20) may be used in place of quassia. The amount of infusion used depends on the tenderness of the plant to be treated. This wash is to be applied early in the morning or late in evening before sundown; never when the sun is high.

For dry treatment of aphids use either one part of finely powdered quassia diluted with nine parts of flour, or powdered pyrethrum diluted in the same proportion, or tobacco dust.

Lime, Sulphur and Salt Wash.
Lime 2 pounds.
Sulphur 1½ pounds.
Salt 1 pound.
Water 4 gallons.

Boil the lime and sulphur together with a gallon of the water, and when combined add the rest of the water and salt. Can be made in concentrated form, if desired, and diluted at the time of application. Effective as a dormant spray.

Dry Treatment of Leaf-Eating Pests
Paris green 1 part.
Powdered lime 6 parts.

Mix. To be applied early in the morning. Suitable for potatoes, cucumbers and other vegetables, but not for roses and other flowers.

Scale on Potatoes and Other Tubers.
Powdered sulphur 1 part.
Charcoal 1 part.

The moistened potatoes are to be rubbed in this powder before planting.

A liquid preparation for the same purpose is made from solution of formaldehyde colored with tincture of cudbear. One pint is diluted with ten gallons of water and potatoes washed in the mixture before planting.

Rust or Fungus Diseases.

Lime 6 pounds.
Copper sulphate 6 pounds.
Lead arsenate 1 pound.
Water, enough to make 50 gallons.
Slake the lime and set aside. Dissolve the copper sulphate in part of the water and mix with the slaked lime. Then add the lead arsenate and the balance of the water. Strain carefully.

For plain bordeaux mixture omit the arsenate.

This preparation can be made in concentrated form and sold subject to dilution on use. It is useful in treating rust and fungus diseases, black spot on roses, and in the control of leaf-eating pests.

To Protect Trees.

Rosin 1 pound.
Castor oil 1 pound.
Melt the rosin and mix with the oil.

This preparation is used to encircle tree trunks to prevent leaf-eating crawlers from getting up into the foliage.

Miss Mary Chalfant, of Chestnut avenue, spent several days last week at Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pa. Miss Chalfant graduated from Wilson in 1923.

Have You a Safe Deposit Vault?

It's The Burglar's Job

TO DISCOVER the secret hiding places in your home that you thought such safe location for your choice possessions. Once he gains entrance, the darkest recess is not safe enough cover from his penetrating eye.

It's Our Job

TO KEEP your possessions where they will be safe from this crafty worker—to place them where his hand hesitates to go—where his brain is not keen enough to direct. Our Safe Deposit Vaults will hold all the valuables you wish to store, and are a safe, reliable, inexpensive insurance against burglary.

REMEMBER! Your vacation time is the Burglar's working time—and your silverware is the bright object of his temptation. Better leave it safe in one of our vaults until you return, than to find it gone to parts unknown—never to come back.

The Country Beckons

Right now comes pretty close to being the best time of the year to get out in the country or the woods. Wouldn't you like to take a four-day trip in a luxuriously appointed car?

You haven't a car? No matter, we can give you as fine a one as you would care to drive.

Costs too much? Not really—here's a typical case:

A party of five left Bryn Mawr after lunch on Friday and drove up to the Delaware Water Gap. Saturday they fished and went in swimming; Sunday they drove around a bit and swam some more; Monday they came home, getting back a little before six o'clock. The total mileage was two hundred and thirty miles—a glorious trip and a wonderful four days' outing.

And the cost for the trip was less than ten dollars each

SUCCESSFUL LUNCHEON

Over 200 at Donation Day at Holiday House.

The Holiday House Luncheon Wednesday of last week was attended by over 200 members of various circles of King's Daughters and was quite a success, though the day threatened rain. A number of parties coming from a distance had chartered busses.

Donations of money, canned goods and groceries were received.

From now on the Holiday House will be known as the Home for the Aged. The house has been thoroughly renovated and is attractively furnished.

The guests of the Home are very happy and grateful for this lovely home making them free of all cares. They will be glad to see visitors at any time and donations of money or groceries will be greatly appreciated.

The Holiday House has been moved to Valley Forge, Pa., having outgrown the Narberth House. The King's Daughters have purchased a 2½-acre tract with suitable buildings.

Making Life Harder

You're doing it if you still get hot water from a teakettle for bathing, dishwashing and all other household uses. You can easily get rid of all that inconvenience by installing a water heater.

With the many styles of modern water heaters available, everyone can have hot water, piped directly to every place it's needed—supplied at a faucet's turn—for much less money than is spent for many unnecessary things.

Abundant hot water means bathing and shaving without waiting. Housecleaning is done quicker. Steaming hot water for dishwashing makes dishes almost self-drying.

Don't continue doing without a modern water heater without first investigating its low operating cost. Drop in and see the variety of water heaters you have to select from.

NEW BRIDGE RULES

Library's Volume Contains Work's New Rules for Game.

"Work on Auction Bridge" is a book that has paid its way at the Community Library ever since it was put on the shelves. There was never a doubt that it filled a widespread and constant local demand. Therefore, there was dismay in the minds of the library staff when it was learned last winter that Work had revised his rules and, with possible deliberate intent, had obsoleted to a certain degree all of his previous books of rules.

The library was short of funds as usual and there was hesitation about buying a new book and discarding the old one, especially when it was recognized that Mr. Work could force such a situation every year if he cared to do so. At this point, Miss Anna MacKeag, president of the Library Association and a valued member of the librarian's staff, stepped forward with a solution.

Miss MacKeag, who is herself a bridge enthusiast, said that Work's new rules were concerned mostly with a simplification of the value of honor cards in relation to suits, assigning to each suit, the same value, Miss MacKeag, therefore, suggested that the insertion of a new score card in the library's present volume would bring it up to date and save the expense of a new book. That was done and local bridge players, who have since consulted the book, have pronounced it entirely satisfactory.

This incident is a typical illustration of the resourceful character of Miss MacKeag's work in the library. Her wide knowledge on many subjects and careful attention to numberless details and requests from readers are important factors in the present service, which the library is giving to the people of Narberth, and it is generally regretted that illness is at present interrupting her work there.

VARE SPENT MORE THAN PEPPER FORCES DID HERE

CONTINUED FROM THE FIRST PAGE by B. Paul Sheeder, county chairman. Of this, expenses amounting to $17,168.76 were incurred.

The contributors were: Thomas F. Watson, treasurer Vare-Beidleman, James and Woodward Committee, $5000; J. G. Feist, $5000; B. Paul Sheeder, $2000; Charles Rhoads, $2000; Adolf Printz, $2000; Joseph L. Printz, $1000; George Klauder, $1000; and Charles A. Ambler, $1500.

Charles Wolfe and Dennis O'Neill, Vare clerks, received $236.27 and $100, respectively, for salaries.

Harry Dooley received $1675 for "campaigning expenses," and Harvey Fredericks received $1600.

George Leitenberger, Councilman, received $255.

Thomas F. McKernan, defeated candidate for Assembly, received $700, and Joseph McElhatton, of West Conshohocken, received $300; Frank Clark, Magistrate, $200, and William J. Clark, defeated candidate for Assembly, $70. Automobile hire and taxicab bills amounted to nearly $100.

Transcribing books, advertising and other miscellaneous matters ran heavily into the balance of the account.

Pinchot Votes Cost 35c.

The Pinchot committee spent only $1874.04, according to the expense account filed with the Clerk of Court at the Court house last Wednesday by William S. Buckland, treasurer.

Hence, the 5414 votes cast for the Governor in this county cost on an average slightly less than 35 cents.

Treasurer Buckland was the main contributor, giving $1580.04.

Not a penny was paid to workers at the polls, the entire fund being devoted to office expenses, advertising in newspapers, salaries for stenographers, postage and automobile hire for distribution of watchers' certificates to volunteer workers.

A complete list of contributions, the date received, the contributors and the

FESTIVAL SUCCESSFUL

The Strawberry Festival which the Luther League of the Lutheran Church gave was a big success. Their president, Frieda Senn, carried it through and engineered it with true executive ability. Everything was delicious and was enjoyed by all present. The co-operation among the young people was splendid and is a fine example for all others to follow.

Icebergs are said to be responsible for the recent cool weather. Sounds as though the weatherman is at sea.

BACK IN FORM

After its bad slump, Narberth came back with a vengeance last Saturday by handing Brookline a brutal beating to the tune of 12 to 1. The game was played at the Brookline Square Club.

Ge orge Babb was in good form, striking out nine of the opposing batsmen, and accounting for two hits and a run. Keyes was high scorer with four safeties and two counters.

The boroughites drove two moundsmen to cover before the smoke cleared away.

Today Fred Walzer's Autocar players will try their luck at the Playground. Several of Narberth's former players, who have deserted the fold to join Fred's aggregation, will be pitted against their former teammates and a good game is in prospect.

HOME FROM COLLEGE

With the closing of the colleges for the summer season, many Narberth students have returned home. Among the recent ones, who completed their work during the past two weeks, are two graduates.

Ross Howenstein received a degree in mechanical engineering from State College, and Donald Hoffman graduated last week from Dartmouth.

Others relieved of college duties for the summer include Robert Allen De Remer Ward from Swarthmore; Richard Town Odiorno, Franklin C. Hutchinson and Gordon Rudolph from Pennsylvania; Edwin Martin and Herbert Burrell from State.
